

BUILDING ENSEMBLES AT WORK (THAT WORK!)

Helping leaders drive the human side of strategy

It used to seem so easy. Leaders spoke, and their teams did what they were told. Well, put away your fax machine, my friend. Organizations are now less hierarchical, more diverse, complex, and geographically dispersed, and growing more Millennial and digitally native by the minute.

What's a leader to do? How can teams thrive — and be effective, creative and innovative — in this ever-changing environment?

For two decades, Performance of a Lifetime has helped leaders and teams grow the vision, courage, ability to influence, and creativity that allow everyone to contribute to a whole — an ensemble — that can do things the sum of its parts could only dream about

Join us and experience our immersive and high-impact development work with teams — blending improvisation, business acumen and performative psychology. We'll explore these essential ensemble-building capabilities:

- Listening, co-creating and synthesizing emergent or divergent ideas
- Flexibility, creativity, and embracing the unknown
- Resilience in the face of change, failure and unexpected challenges
- Deepening relationships and creating trust

You'll learn about our innovative approach, and how we can add value to your 2019 leadership and talent development strategies.

*"When different voices come together and merge, they can create a new, unique voice that's greater than the sum of its parts. This group/ensemble entity has the power to change course, to see and act in new ways, to hold shared and divergent opinions at the same time, and to carry the past, the present, and what is yet to become, together."

— CATHY SALIT, CEO, PERFORMANCE OF A LIFETIME

"Performance of a Lifetime helped take the IBM Japan management team beyond what we had ever done. They took us out of our comfort zone, but in a safe environment. The catalyst of performance helped us start thinking differently about how we could practice, or "rehearse" — to experiment with how we could co-create an alternate future together with our clients."

— ZANE ZUMBAHLEN, VP HR, IBM

ABOUT PERFORMANCE OF A LIFETIME

Performance of a Lifetime uses the art and science of performance "off the stage" to help leaders close the gap between the status quo and their desired future. Our global team of coaches leverages The Becoming Principle® to engage leaders and entire organizations in discovering, creating, and acting on new and uncharted possibilities. When you practice performing the way actors and improvisers do, you are able to be both who you are and who you are not yet — that is, who you and your team or organization want to become. Our services include professional development workshops and custom leadership development programs. Performance of a Lifetime's work has been featured in the Harvard Business Review, Wall Street Journal, Fast Company, Forbes, and Wired.
